

How does THIRDHAND SMOKE affect the liver?

When a healthy liver is exposed to thirdhand smoke chemicals, the liver struggles to convert food into energy.

When this happens, large and excessive fat droplets are created. These abnormal fat droplets can cause serious liver diseases.